

Donor Privacy

The Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation keeps contact information, such as names, addresses, phone numbers, and e-mail addresses, as well as the contribution amounts of our donors on file. The Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation does not sell or rent this information. We occasionally make portions of our member lists available to other nonprofit organizations, who do the same for us, in an effort to acquire new donors. We share only names and addresses. We do not share telephone numbers, e-mail addresses, or financial information. To opt out, contact the Department of External Affairs at 215-567-7710. The Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation may use the information on file to contact the donors about activity around the library.

The Free Library of Philadelphia Foundation adheres to the guidelines set forth in the Donor Bill of Rights developed by the American Association of Fund Raising Counsel (AAFRC), the Association of Fundraising Professionals (AFP), the Association for Healthcare Philanthropy (AHP), and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

Donor Bill of Rights

Philanthropy is based on voluntary action for the common good. It is a tradition of giving and sharing that is primary to the quality of life. To assure that philanthropy merits the respect and trust of the general public, and that donors and prospective donors can have full confidence in the not-for-profit organizations and causes they are asked to support, we declare that all donors have these rights:

1. To be informed of the organization's mission, of the way the organization intends to use donated resources, and of its capacity to use donations effectively for their intended purposes.
2. To be informed of the identity of those serving on the organization's governing board, and to expect the board to exercise prudent judgment in its stewardship responsibilities.
3. To have access to the organization's most recent financial statements.
4. To be assured their gifts will be used for the purposes for which they were given.
5. To receive appropriate acknowledgement and recognition.
6. To be assured that information about their donations is handled with respect and with confidentiality to the extent provided by the law.
7. To expect that all relationships with individuals representing organizations of interest to the donor will be professional in nature.
8. To be informed whether those seeking donations are volunteers, employees of the organization or hired solicitors.
9. To have the opportunity for their names to be deleted from mailing list that an organization may intend to share.
10. To feel free to ask questions when making a donation and to receive prompt, truthful and forthright answers.